Bloomington High School South

Celebrating the story-one life at a time

"What is your purpose in life?"

Small groups of high school students were spread throughout the large room in the Warehouse where we host our weekly Club meetings. In those groups were adult leaders who were working to create meaningful and open conversation with their younger counterparts. A group made up of mostly freshman boys were especially challenging to corral on this particular night. Some of that comes with the territory of their maturity level, and some of that comes with their ability to put up obstacles when they sense that they might be encountering an opportunity to be vulnerable. On this particular night, I sense there was a little of both.

We were talking about "Purpose" that night. After most of the boys had told us their life goals included being in the NBA or NFL, one of their leaders posed this question: "What would you say is your purpose in life?"

"Fun."

"To have fun."

"To do the things I enjoy."

Pretty familiar responses to those of us who have been asking these questions of students for a number of years now. But then... a couple more boys shared.

"To make it out."

"Yeah, me too. To make it out."

When asked what they meant by that, they shared that they just wanted to have a better life than the one that's been handed to them. They wanted something better than what they've been living.

Pray with us that these young boys will continue to engage in conversations with these leaders, and in time find that "something better." Something so much better!

Sharing my story

To know me is to know that I LOVE BABIES!

We were especially excited to welcome little Ariella Jade Pruet to the YFC family last month! Kevin Pruet, our High School Campus Life Director for Bloomington North, and his wife Courtney were blessed with this wonderful little addition to their beautiful young family!

Haley Sinn has been an exciting addition to our leadership team this year! While recently stepping away from her role as an Art teacher at BHSN, her passion to influence lives has driven her to pursue students through relational ministry! As a young mom, she is often found with child on her hip while engaged in conversation with high school kids. She providing kids with a tremendous example of what a loving parent looks like!
